1. Discuss the argument that the module agriculture, people and development does enhance agricultural development. Relate your arguments on the relevance of the module to your course of study.
2. From what you learnt from the module and from your personal experiences, what are those factors that keep rural areas in the slavery of poverty and backwardness? Illustrate with concrete examples.
3. If women were more involved in the planning processes for policies that have to do with agriculture in any country of your origin in Africa, there would have been more development in the rural areas in Africa. Discuss.
4. Identify the causes of environmental degradation in your area and suggest sustainable ways of minimizing the degradation.
5. Discuss how you can use indigenous knowledge to enhance development in your area.
6. Discuss the role of agriculture in development with particular reference to your country of origin.
